DOZEN KILLED AS MANY FATAL-

Assistance for Victims Difficult to Render Promptly—Tornadoes
Strike Northeastern Part.

Oklahoma City Ok May 11—At least a dozen killed outright as many more fatally injured and three score more or less seriously hurt is the result of a succession of tornadoes that swept Woodward and adjoining counties last night. The cyclone covered an area of twenty-five miles, leaving death and devastation in its path. Wires are down and communication cut off and it is impossible to learn the full extent of the casualties.

Seven towns are reported to be wiped off the map, and at Grand, Arnett and Estelle, where the storm spent its fury, the death list is heaviest. The villages destroyed are twenty-five miles from the nearest railroad and it is difficult to obtain details.

The towns of Vici Mutual Cooley and Richmond are reported as having been devastated.

At Little Robe forty-five miles southwest of Woodward Mrs J. M. Hale was killed.

In the vicinity of Arnett O. E. Null and daughter were caught in the storm while driving. They escaped injury but their team was killed.

The little town of Cestos Dewey county, also is reported wiped off the map. No details from there have yet been obtained.

The known casualties are:
At Arnett—Mr Hale killed
At Vici—Dr Hauser fatally injured.

At Mutual—Arthur Sibet his wife and several others seriously injured.

Grand the county seat of Ellis county is said to have been wholly wrecked. The towns of Estelle, Cooley and Richmond also are reported to have been devastated. All these places are twenty-five miles from a railroad. Wires are down and it is difficult to obtain details. The villages where damage is reported are all small places. Grand is the largest of the seven and it is only a few hundred inhabitants. The scene of the tornadoes is the northwest corner of the old portion of Oklahoma close to the Colorado, Texas and Kansas lines.

As far as learned it traversed four counties and covered a distance of seventy-five miles in length. Yesterday and last night there was a terrific rainfall in the part of the state following oppressive weather—ideal cyclonic conditions. A terrific hail storm which did tremendous property damage as well as heavy damage to crops attended the storm. The hail resembled huge chunks of ice rather than hail stones.

Destruction at Nashville, Ok.

Enid, Ok., May 11—Nashville, thirty miles northwest of here in Alfalfa County was struck by a storm of terrible force last night about 8:30 o'clock that damages practically every building in the place. The storm was not a cyclone but a tornado. There is scarcely a window left in the town left unbroken. Many buildings were removed from their foundations and eight were completely blown down and their contents wrecked.

Three prominent homes, belonging to Fred Johnson, H. F. Chambers and David Summers, are in ruins. The building occupied by James Webber's furniture store was blown down and the contents of the store badly damaged. Russell & Givens, general dry goods, suffered great damage to building and contents.

The general merchandise store of J. B. Clapp was ruined. The wind tore down the building in which the Pioneer Telephone company had its office and removed the building occupied by the Nashville News from its foundation, wrecking the interior. All telephone wires in this vicinity are down. Five barns in Nashville and on the edge of the town were blown to the ground. Scarcely a building in Nashville has not been damaged to some extent. The heaviest damage is in broken glass and cracking walls.

SENATE COMMITTEE REPORTS

Oklahoma Body Will Make Statement
Today— McAlester, Penitentiary.
Hugo, Insane Asylum.

Guthrie Ok May 11—The Senate Committee on State Institutions has agreed upon a report, which will be made tomorrow recommending that the three normal schools proposed for the eastern part of the State be located at Ada, Durant and Table Rock. The penitentiary, without reference to a branch will go to McAlester and a favorable report is to be made upon Senator Stewart's bill locating the insane asylum for the east side in Hugo. The Senate's action, it is said, will not affect that of the house. Democratic members of the latter in a caucus again tonight, listening to a speech by Gov. Haskell which conservative members say will round out the House's policy on the public building question.

State School of Mines.

The Senate passed finally today the Sorrells-Stivers bill creating and locating the state school of mines in Wilburton. It is said the new institution is to receive an endowment of forty acres of land from J. S. Latimer member of the constitutional convention and from whom the county was named. The site is but one and one half miles from the Wilburton postoffice. Other measures finally passed by the Senate were Governor and Special Officers.

Guthrie Ok May 11—In the opinion of Attorney General West given Gov. Haskell today there is no statutory authority for the governor to appoint special deputies or state constables and an expressed statutory authority is necessary before such may be done, for the attorney general states, the chief executive of the state is not even vested with such authority by the common law. The governor has received applications for appointments as special deputies or constables in connection with executive certain laws.

General Bill Cross.

Poor old Bill Cross, probably the most generally beloved citizen in Oklahoma is very ill at the home of his first assistant secretary of state, Geo. Meyer.

His friends will be sorely disappointed should he not be able to attend the national convention and the Birmingham reunion. Any public gathering in which Oklahomans large or participate would not look right without the genial presence of Uncle Bill.

Wrangles Over Insurance Bill.

Guthrie, Okla., May 11.—The senate spent most of the afternoon on the middle insurance bill and succeeded in getting through with about one-half of the 89 sections before adjournment. Numerous amendments were offered, particularly by Senator Brook, who had changes to suggest in practically every section, but very few were adopted. The most important were those adding mercantile, fire and farmers' mutual insurance companies to the list of those exempted from the general operation of the bill and reducing the percentage of reserve for re-insurance to be held by domestic companies on risks that have more than one year to run, from 70 to 40.

INDICT HEFLIN FOR SHOOTING TWO ON CAR

Washington, May 11.—The federal grand jury today returned an indictment charging Representative J. Thomas Heflin of Alabama with assault with a dangerous weapon. The indictment contains three counts, two of which relate to the assault on Lewis Lunda, a negro, with whom Mr. Heflin had a dispute on a street car in this city on March 27, last. The third count charges an assault on Thomas McCaery, of New York, a horseman, who was struck by a bullet from Heflin's pistol.

GIVES LESEES VOTING CHANCE BUT IT'S SHADY

Guthrie, Okla., May 11.—Strategy failed to carry its point by one in the house today when after his substitute to the committee's school band bill was voted down, Speaker Murray threw a bomb into the opposition by raising the point of order that members who are school band lessors could not vote, only to lose through a decision of Chairman McCaughan that he, McCaughan, could not justly pass on the question.

No Fraud Found.

Washington, May 9.—Justice Gould of the District supreme court today decided that Senator Owen of Oklahoma, former Senator Butler, of South Carolina, and Wylie O. Cox, of Kansas City, are entitled to a fee of $75,000, payment of which from the United States treasury had been enjoined on the complaint of the law firm of Sheley & Martin, of this city, on a charge of fraud in a $5,000,000 claim of the Cherokee Indians against the government. Justice Gould held that no fraud had been shown.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of and in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, but they are important parts of a certain species of disease, which we call Indigestion.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the principal nerves alone brought that success and favor Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. With such an original and highly vital principle no such lastingly effective remedy ever to be had.

For stomach, distress, bloating, indigestion, breath and shallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and ~~strongly~~ ~~strongly~~ recommend

COMFORTING WORDS.

Many a Household Will Find Them So.

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed; to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders; it's enough to make the kidney sufferer grateful. To tell how this great change can be brought about will prove comforting words to hundreds of readers.

W. H. C. Brown, well known throughout Guthrie, general agent for the Ottawa Star Nursery Co., and residing at 514 Vilas street, Guthrie, Okla., says: "I have been a great sufferer from kidney disease for a period of seven or eight years. Several years ago I almost died from what is known as stone or gravel of the bladder. This left my kidneys in a weak condition and ever since I have been bothered almost constantly with a lame and aching back, not bad enough to make me take to my bed, but sufficient to prevent me from attending to my work. As if backache was not enough torment and misery there existed a trouble with the kidney secretions. The action of those organs were altogether too frequent, especially at night, and the secretions were often accompanied with pain. I was treated by physicians and tried one remedy after another, but all failed to give me even temporary relief, and at the time Doan's Kidney Pills first came to my attention I was so utterly disengaged that I thought I was not long for this world. It is impossible for me to describe my condition at the time that I went for my first box. That box improved my condition so much that I used a second and a third. When I had taken three boxes the trouble was ended and I considered myself cured. I feel better than I have for twenty years. I never hesitate to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, for I claim that they were the means of saving my life."

The Vanishing Fleets

BY ROY NORTON.

of papers before him, referred to some of them in quest of data, and then looked very grave and earnest as he continued in a lower voice:

"Extraordinary times demand extraordinary measures. We are without precedent, and are confronting an emergency of such immense import that those of us who were here last night believe it is a time when all rules, official routine and regular methods must give way in behalf of quick accomplishment. We have no time in which to seek special appropriations; but must take it upon ourselves to levy upon the various budgets which are now open for the considerable sums of money necessary to prosecute this work."

One or two, who were evidently late arrivals and had not heard the earlier discussions, looked at each other with some festination. It was hard to drop routine and dip into the nation's treasury on such short consideration. The high dignity of the presiding officer, however, forbade any interruption, and he went on unchallenged.

"The absolute preservation of our secret is recognized by all as a vital necessity, and to obviate all leakages the members of the army and navy board suggest that our work be carried on in one of the most secluded of the Florida keys. On this they purpose to erect a plant adequate to cast and perfect this metal on which we depend, and as rapidly as possible apply it to the vessels of our navy, which will be sent there as quickly as preparations can be made for their reception."

Norma, who had not been informed of this part of the project, gave a start of protest, foreseeing that she, too, would have to share in this isolation and become an exile until the experiments were concluded. Her father turned a questioning look toward her, and then reached over and patted her hand in sympathy. The president was steadily summing up the situation.

"The navy department will attend to purchasing supplies, including machinery and crude metals necessary for the first work, while Dr. Roberts will place his orders for apparatus, and all will be consigned to the collier Penobscot, which will transport them to the chosen spot. The gunboat Harp will accompany her, and will be the first boat to be experimented upon and equipped with the new plates.

Pearl Admiral Brockton will be assigned to her command for the present. These two ships will sail from New York Harbor, together with a small transport which will carry such engineers and mechanics as the navy department may select for a work of this importance. Communication will be maintained by such means as seem best to Admiral Brockton, and more men and supplies will be dispatched from time to time as required. It is needless to say that the entire experimental work, the casting of the plates, and the general supervision of everything, will be under the direction of Dr. Roberts."

"And his assistant," the inventor again interjected.

The secretary of the navy, obeying a suggestion from the chair, read off a long list of figures, explaining them as he went, and concluding with an unqualified endorsement of the plan. So infectious was his blunt enthusiasm and confidence, that those who at first had hesitated at the irregularity of the procedure found themselves won over, and bound with complete unanimity into a coterie which was to assume responsibility for a war. And thus was the issue accepted.

The early hours of the morning were upon them as they dispersed, but Norma, resting back in the corner of the cab which conveyed her homeward, did not share the elation of her father, who was already building workshops, conducting new experiments and equipping a navy. Yesterday she had looked forward to confiding the story of their great success to Guy Hillier; for in the preceding month, when she and her father had been trembling on the very edge of a great discovery in unknown fields, she had given no intimation of their work or their prospects, planning this surprise, and now, by the rigid embargo of silence, thrust upon her, her dream was dissipated. To her the production of the radioactive metal had meant a goal; but now that it was reached and she was anxious to satisfy a heart hunger, she had been given another task, and was to undergo more silence and repression and another siege of work in a world of figures, of test tubes and retorts, a slave to the lamp of science and her father's success. Not even the knowledge that she was sacrificing herself on the altar of duty to country, whose protection and welfare were burdens that she must share, palliated the bitterness of holding love aloof. And in this light the triumphs of invention seemed hollow and the night filled with dreariness.

There were no more regular meetings of those who conspired for the national good; but it was a season of terrific activity, and February was yet young when there sailed away from New York harbor one night a gunboat, a collier and a small transport, whose destinations were unknown, and which slipped their moorings in silence and passed down the bay with scarcely a sound to announce their departure.

On board the gunboat were men accustomed to unquestioning obedience, and on the transport was a little army of skilled mechanics and engineers who had been called from their usual by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Tired nerves, with that "no ambition" feeling that is commonly felt in spring or early summer, can be easily and quickly altered by taking what is known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. One will absolutely note a changed feeling within 48 hours after beginning to take the Restorative. The bowels get sluggish in the winter-time, the circulation often slows up, the kidneys are inactive, and even the heart in many cases grows decidedly weaker. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is recognized everywhere as a genuine tonic to these vital organs. It builds up and strengthens the worn-out weakened nerves; it sharpens the failing appetite, and universally aids digestion. It always quickly brings renewed strength, life, vigor and ambition. DALLAS BOOSTERS HERE

SEVENTY-FIVE STRONG, THEY ARE GREETED BY ADA MEN AND WOMEN.

The Dallas Commercial Club seventy-five strong arrived via Katy at 2:30 p m. some time later than schedule. The Ada band was filling the air with melodious strains as the special rolled in, and cheers from the visitors greeted the several hundred who had gathered at the station.

A line of march formed, headed by the Ada Band and the visitors were escorted to the club rooms where an informal reception was held. President Lucas called the crowd to order and introduced Hon. J. F. McKeel, who welcomed the Dallas boys on behalf of Ada. Judge McKeel was followed by J. Howard Ardrey, cashier of the Gaston National bank of Dallas and president of the Dallas Commercial club, who responded to the welcome address in a few, but well chosen words. Tom D. McKeown was then introduced and spoke words of welcome and good fellowship on behalf of the 25,000 Club. The glad hand and good cigars were given in great profusion, and from this moment till the train pulled out, the Dallas boosters and the Ada business men exchanged greetings, ideas and cards. On account of the delay the visitors were unable to visit the cement plant, the pride of our city.

The special left at 4:00 p m for Sulphur where they will spend the night. Ada appreciates the visit of the southern neighbors, and will welcome them back again.

To the Very Last.

W. H. Ebey, W. L. Reed, Charlie Thomas, Judge Galbraith, Jno. W. Beard, Adam Beck, Senator Roddie and Representatives Ratliff and Huston were sitting together at 11:30 o'clock last night in the Ada caucus room at the Ione Hotel discussing Ada's prospects for the state normal when the News editor took his leave for home. Their parting injunction was an assurance to Ada that they would remain on the ground until it was all over.

Four new students were enrolled in the Commercial school yesterday. Roy Byrd of Frank and Vernon Rollow of Ada, to take the business course; W. T. Melton of Hild and Miss Kitte Lawson of Ada, the teachers course of two months.

The smile on the face of the management is an assurance of the encouraging feeling they have.

THE TRAGEDY of "THE OTHER WOMAN" and "THE OTHER MAN"

OFFENDERS AGAINST THE MARRIAGE VOW

New York — Floretta Whaley, deserted by her clergyman lover, Jared K. Cook, is a wreck, was flashed over the wires one beautiful August morning.

"Floretta Whaley, deserted by her clergyman lover, a wreck," was the legend printed in foot high letters on Park Row's bulletin boards.

Men and women hurrying to and from the bridge paused an instant, shrugged their shoulders and murmured. "Well, what else would you expect from such an elopement?"

"Mrs. Hart McKee sues for a divorce," whispered the cables under the sea.

"Mrs. Hart McKee sues for divorce," echoed thousands of newspaper headlines all over America.

And again the world shrugged its shoulders and murmured: "Well, what would you expect when their marriage broke up a home?"

Later the Whaley news was denied and relatives of the girl declared that nothing had been heard from her. She was dead to them. The day of forgiveness was past.

The Hart McKee announcement was not denied.

The two stories stand in public opinion for dishonor and unhappiness—and why?

Because public opinion, that most volatile and restless of barometers has shifted its viewpoint once more.

Time was when an elopement held every element of romance, and the world applauded, writes Anna Stoece Richardson in the New York World.

Those were the days when young people oftentimes unnecessarily stole away with Dan Cupid, when an unreasonable parent could be made to see light by no other means. Then followed the period when, at rare intervals, a young woman ran away with a married man, or, more rarely still, a young man, like a feudal baron of the olden days, stole away the wife of his neighbor. To be sure, these cases startled the community in which they occurred, but scandal gradually died before the excuse: "It is a case of the grand passion. She was the one woman in the world for him and it is wrong for two unloving persons to live together."

And Now is Shown the Other Side of the Story.

For a time this sophistry swayed public opinion. Then domestic histories, not always written but still well known, divorce court annals and newspaper headlines told different story. The grand passion died, even as the love of youth sometimes fades. One divorce led to another. Husbands returned to their first wives, while the women who had lured them from their hearthstones were left to face the world with its shrugging shoulders, as they might.

And then the world woke up to a great truth. The grand passion was not what it had been pictured: a power more potent and vital was exerting its influence over these romantic, scandal-defying couples. The world could not see this power, but erring husbands saw it and felt it and could find no avenue of escape from it. It was their Nemesis—the ghostly, silent, beckoning, never-sleeping figure of the first wife's love.

Before Jared K. Cook, rector of St. George's parish, Hempstead, L. I., stood with poor, foolish, 17-year-old Floretta Whaley, he said to the girl's grandmother: "I swore when I first elided that they could not live apart—and they proceeded to elope, settling in Cody, Wyo. There they faced the stern realities of life. The paternal allowance ceased. The young man knew nothing of the gentle art of earning a livelihood. The woman in the case was game. She tried to find a solution of their problem—a bare living—but the man recalled the patient wife, the well-kept home, the welcome that never failed, the placid corner to which he could always turn when he wearied of his gayer companions. In the wilds of Wyoming he left the object of his sudden and inexplicable grand passion and returned to his first love.

Is it hard to picture the hopelessness of the second woman deserted?

Then there was the famous Acer domestic reunion. Frank Adams Acer married beautiful Miss Addie Estelle Tilt in April, 1897. Two children were born to them and all was apparently happy until the green-eyed monster invaded their perfectly appointed home. Mrs. Acer proved her right to a divorce on statutory grounds, but the name of the co-respondent was kept secret. Two years passed, stormy years, during which the husband further longed for wife, home and babies. And finally he won them all back. Mr. and Mrs. Acer were remarried on November 9, 1904, and are happy.

But what of the third party, "the woman in the case?" After all, is she not the greater sufferer—for she has not public nor private sympathy?

Divorced Wife Who Became a Queen in Social Circles

Far back in one of the Rocky mountain states the ghost of such a tragedy lies close to the annals of congress and its representatives. A man who had found enormous wealth in the gold-ribbed mountains divorced the wife who had followed him over the packtrain and cooked for his miners. His second wife was a woman of magnificent physical beauty, some social standing and a few accomplishments, but lacking in what makes woman truly beautiful—a soul. For a time she queened it over her husband's newly acquired social life. The first wife was forgotten. Then suddenly the latter appeared upon the scene, but a different woman. She had spent the intervening years abroad, where she had studied under able masters and had been gowned by the subtlest of modistes and milliners. She had become an accomplished charming, perfectly poised woman. And before her lovely personality the mere physical charms of the second wife faded. The first wife became a social queen in her disloyal husband's own set. The second wife became a social outcast. But this time the woman held out no beckoning hand of welcome. The man held his head high, but he had to make way for the woman he had deserted. Who shall not say that her regal figure was more than a Nemesis—an avenger that separated him from his second

To-day, in some secluded corner of this continent or across the sea, Jared Cook and Floretta Whaley are waiting for the law to take its course and set the man free; and in Hartford a beautiful woman with prematurely white hair and eyes from which the joy of living has faded, is waiting—for what?

For the law to set her free from the man who was untrue to his vows, and who thereby brought disgrace on her household and wrecked her life? Perhaps. But it is more likely that, being a woman, a loving, steadfast woman, she is waiting, with arms outstretched, for the return of the lover and husband of her youth. And that silent, heart-winging message may reach across oceans and continents and find a repentant man.

And who but Floretta Whaley will pay the terrible price of his fall and repentance?

Hart McKee Divorce Like Page from Novel.

The Hart McKee divorce involves more persons and recalls a romance of coquetry and jilting unequalled outside the pages of novels.

Hart McKee belongs to the circle of New York-Pittsburg millionaires who have kept the world at large guessing during the past decade. He divorced his first wife, according to society's vigorous rumors, in order to marry the wife of Lawrence C. Phipps, another member of the Pittsburg millionaire coterie. But, even while Mrs. Phipps was securing her divorce, he met beautiful Cornelia Baxter Tevis, widow of Hugh Tevis, one of California's richest young men. And, meeting her, he forgot his fealty to the woman who, it was said, was securing a divorce for his sake. He and Mrs. Tevis were married and the Phipps family was suddenly and inexplicably reconciled and reunited in marriage.

On her side, Mrs. Tevis-McKee brought another tale of jilting and coquetry, having broken her engagement to a young lawyer, Gerald Hughes, on the very eve of her marriage, to wed her first husband. Today these two, man and woman of many moods and uncontrolled whims, are ready to part once more, and society, shrugging its shoulders, inquires, callously: "Will he go back to the first Mrs. McKee or to Mrs. Phipps?" For even the calloused, so-called society circles of this money-mad age seem to have faith that the man will go back to the love that he believes is most tolerant to his faults, most loyal to himself.

George Gordon Massey of Dover, Del., petted son and man of luxurious tastes and goodly paternal allowance, married a girl of slightly less social standing. She bore with him short comings and made him welcome whenever he wandered home from his life of artificial gayety.

Left Home for Woman He Fancied He Loved

Then suddenly there came into his life, a beautiful, dashing young woman, Evelyn Rane, wife of Dr. C. B. Rane, of Philadelphia. The two declined that they could not live apart—and they proceeded to elope, settling in Cody, Wyo. There they faced the stern realities of life. The paternal allowance ceased. The young man knew nothing of the gentle art of earning a livelihood. The woman in the case was game. She tried to find a solution of their problem—a bare living—but the man recalled the patient wife, the well-kept home, the welcome that never failed, the placid corner to which he could always turn when he wearied of his gayer companions. In the wilds of Wyoming he left the object of his sudden and inexplicable grand passion and returned to his first love.

Success Made Actor Turn from His Life Partner

The scandal was hushed up, the comedian went on his triumphant way; beautiful women of the stage angled for him, and one of them won him. He was successful and gossip dared not rear its head too high. Then suddenly it was discovered that he could not remember his lines. He forgot his cues. His dancing was uncertain, his antics were unfunny. Finally his engagements were canceled. "Paresis," said the doctors.

But there are men and women of the old days who know him best who say that it is not any real physical ailment, but a beckoning figure, the figure of the deserted, heart-broken wife, whose spirit cannot rest in a suicide's grave.

And who can describe the misery of the second wife watching his living death?

PATH FINDING BY INSTINCT.

Remarkable Sense Displayed by Black-foot Halfbreed Scout.

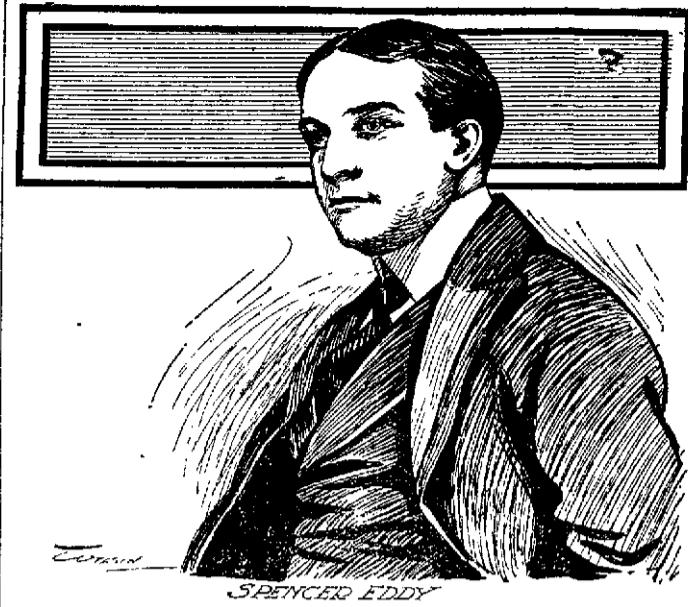

That the true scout is both born and made is the argument of a writer in the London Times, who says: "He has, for example, the capacity of remembering everything he sees on a journey—the same capacity which was possessed by Capt. Cook, the famous circumnavigator, who would take a walk through the streets of London and remember all the names above all the many shops he passed without the least consciousness of effort. Similarly a red Indian who takes a journey will remember everything he passes—every tree, open space, stream—on the whole length of the trail. In some cases an even more remarkable instinct for path finding is revealed. Thus Col. S. B. Steele, who commanded Strathearn's Horse in South Africa and has known all the famous western scouts and prairie detectives, once told me that a Black-foot half-breed employed years ago by the Northwest mounted police was the best guide he had ever met, possessing, as he did, an almost uncanny sense of locality and direction.

"Others could guide travelers through country they had visited before. But this man, who was made chief of his 'nation' or tribe, could take a party from place to place by the quickest route, through country that he had never seen before.

LOVE FOR BALL SAVED BANK

Director Does Not Claim Credit for Financial Acumen.

The visitor asked to see Al G. Fields, the minister. The hotel clerk indicated a large dignified man who wore bow spectacles.

"What! That man who looks like a bank director?"

"That man who is a bank director," the clerk corrected.

Mr. Fields didn't deny the charge.

"I'll tell you a story to illustrate my financial acumen," he said. "I'm a sportsman first of all—always go to all the baseball games I can. The bank of which I was a director had an unpleasant way of holding its meetings at one o'clock on Saturdays. The particular day I have in mind there was a baseball game scheduled and man with a million dollars in electric rail way bonds came along asking $100,000 cash on them.

"After consulting my watch I arose at the meeting and made a vigorous speech against giving him the money. The president of the bank protested—said that it everyone believed as I did the Union Pacific railway never would have been built. But I demanded a vote and when the count came in everyone except the president and vice-president had been moved by my oratory. Later this same financier went to Buffalo, got $600,000 on his

FINE PAINTINGS GO TO WEST.

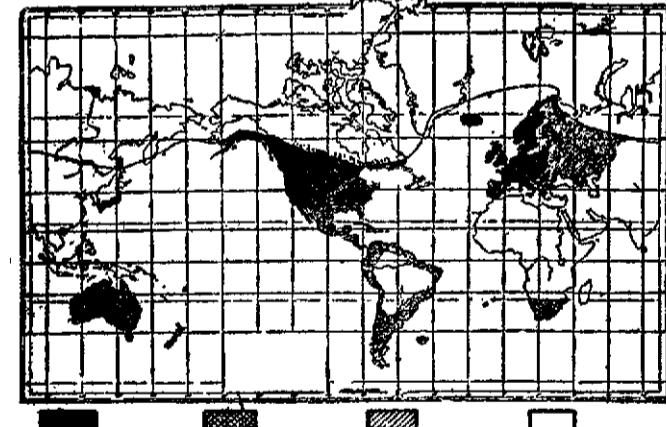

Valuable Art Collections Outside Those of the East.

"American oil painters get much more encouragement from the wealthy men of the west than they do from the millionaires of the east," said Henry Reinhardt of Milwaukee in New York the other day. "There is more patriotism among the western men of means, and they pay better prices for American pictures than the easterners. American works are going into the galleries of the west. Many New York collectors of oil paintings would be greatly surprised if they should make an inspection of the private collections of Milwaukee, Toledo, Cleveland, Denver and other western cities. In the city of Milwaukee alone we have at least 20 private collections which will run over the $100,000 mark, and fully half of that number will run into $200,000. In New York you have some wonderful paintings in your private collections, but they are hidden as completely from the public as though they were in the wilds of Africa. Nobody gets the benefit of a view of them, not even their owners, because they are constantly in Europe collecting other pictures to 'hide' in New York."

MAP OF THE WORLD'S LITERACY

Above 90 p.c. can read 60 to 90 p.c.

It Will Be Noted That the Areas of Literacy Bear a Striking Resemblance in Their Distribution to the Map of the English-Speaking World.

English now leads all other languages in the number of its readers, and its geographical distribution corresponds to a remarkable extent with the area of the world's greatest literacy, and according to Mr. E. H. Babbitt, who writes in the World's Work, within the century "English will be the vernacular of a quarter instead of a tenth of the people of the world, and be read by a half instead of a quarter of the people who can read."

A Hint. Senator Fulton, at his annual Oregon salmon dinner in Washington, told a tipping story.

"In Astoria," he said, "there used to be an old fisherman who brought me the first of every month, a present of a splendid salmon from his Master. I always gave the old fisherman a tip."

"But one morning I was very busy, and when the old boy brought his fish I thanked him hurriedly, and, forgetting his tip, bent over my desk again. He hesitated a moment, then cleared his throat and said:

"Senator, would ye be so kind as to put it in writin' that ye didn't give me no tip this time, or my wife'll think I've went and spent it on rum!"

For Home Gardener.

Most ladies who plant sweet peas plant them in trenches, but in some cases these seem to be unsuccessful, and both methods may be used, and the result depended upon future work. For those who have not planted them before, both methods may be tried. There is no flower that gives more satisfaction if the cultivation is successful.

one night to be taken to the play by a friend who was interested in the piece which happened to occupy the boards. The man in charge of the door would not admit them without payment, but after awhile the authoritative official was found and the necessary permission secured. The performance, unfortunately, proved to be very dull, but for the sake of his friend the famous novelist endured it with stoical calmness. In leaving, however, he stared about him and remarked with simple pathos: "I am looking for that kind-hearted man who was not for letting us in. I should like to give him a shilling."—Dundee Advertiser.
